

Nooshin Yamani, neurologist and headache specialist from Iran. She has graduated as board certified neurologist from Tehran university of medical science in 2016 and there after passed one year of headache fellowship in Danish headache center at professor Jes Olesen's research group. She has also passed 2 years of headache master school at the university of Copenhagen in 2018-2020.

She is a member of educational committee as well as journal group of the international headache society and has got several research and educational grants from international headache society, European headache Federation and university of Copenhagen till now. She is currently working as assistant professor of neurology at Zanzan University of medical sciences .